Introduction

Labour Market (including the Labour Force Survey)

Labour market statistics measure the involvement of individuals, households and businesses in the labour market. They cover short-term and structural aspects of the labour market, both for the supply and the demand side, in monetary and non-monetary terms.

These aspects include:

- Employment and unemployment – the Labour Force Survey (LFS)
- Job vacancies
- Earnings – gross and net earnings, the Structure of Earnings Survey (SES), gender pay gap, minimum wages
- Labour costs incurred by businesses – the quarterly Labour Cost Index (LCI), annual labour costs data, the Labour Cost Survey (LCS)
- Labour market policies (LMPs)
- Labour disputes

Additional data concerning the labour market can be found in other sections, notably, in national accounts and regional statistics.

Use of Data

Statistics on the labour market are used to monitor the Europe 2020 strategy, the European Employment Strategy (EES) and respond to the requirements of economic and monetary policy in the European Union:

- Annual statistics make a key contribution to the indicator sets for the Europe 2020 strategy, and in particular for the employment guidelines (part II of the Europe 2020 Integrated Guidelines).
- Infra-annual statistics such as monthly unemployment rates, the Labour Cost Index (LCI) and the quarterly job vacancy statistics (JVS), which belong to the Principal European Economic Indicators (PEEIs), provide important information for business cycle analysis and policy decisions.

Labour market statistics are also directly relevant to citizens since employment and unemployment are of central concern to individuals and society.

The screenshot displays the Eurostat website interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: Home, Statistics, Publications, About Eurostat, and User support. Below this is a sidebar on the left with a 'Statistics' menu containing links like 'Statistics by theme', 'Browse / Search database', and 'Metadata'. The main content area is titled 'Browse / Search Database' and features a search bar and a navigation tree. The navigation tree is a hierarchical list of folders, with three specific folders circled in red: 'Database by themes', 'Tables by themes', and 'Tables on EU policy'. Three red callout boxes with arrows point to these circled folders, providing detailed information about each. A fourth callout box points to a 'Statistics Database' button in the bottom left corner.

Welcome to Statistics Explained

Statistics Explained, your guide to European statistics.

Statistics Explained is an official Eurostat website presenting all statistical topics in an easily understandable way. Together, the articles make up everyone's encyclopedia of European statistics, completed by a statistical glossary clarifying all terms used and by numerous links to further information and the very latest data and metadata, a portal for occasional and regular users alike.

To find the information you need, use the hierarchical theme tree, the categories or the search function (alt-f).

New: Living standards statistics

This article focuses on living standards in the European Union (EU), as measured by the median equivalised disposable income. Living standards fell in 15 Member States in 2010 compared with a year earlier, after adjusting for inflation. In the vast majority of Member States the median income fell most for the unemployed and least for people in employment. More ...

Population projections

This article looks at Eurostat's latest population projection scenario (Europop2010) for the 27 Member States of the European Union (EU) and the EFTA countries. It focuses more particularly on population ageing, undoubtedly a key demographic challenge in many European countries over the next fifty years. Its implications for socioeconomic systems, such as public pensions
